The Department of Health and Human Services is redesigning one of its emergency shelters in Michigan to host unaccompanied Afghan minors. According to the department, there are 201 unaccompanied Afghan minors in HHS custody. At the beginning of this year HHS established more than a dozen emergency shelters to assist unaccompanied minors who crossed the border between the United States and Mexico, but many were closed due to the slowdown of crossings. The Starr Commonwealth campus of Albion, Michigan, will remain open and will specifically take care of Afghan minors. Currently there are 63 minors on the site. CNN In other news about national immigration á! Low-wage immigrant workers jobs address most business discrimination Not citizens whose jobs are covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act have the right to be paid a minimum wage and overtime after 40 hours. But it is not unusual for employers to deny such rights to immigrant workers, leaving non-citizens afraid to react. The U.S. Department of Labour generally welcomes complaints from all employees, regardless of immigration status. According to a public integrity analysis center of the Department of Labour and U.S. Census Bureau data, industries with higher percentages of foreign-born workers see higher rates of wage theft. The Center for Public Integrity Denuncia denounces ICE tortured African asylum seekers Three Cameroonian men filed a complaint to the National Security Department of the Civil Rights and Civil Liberties Office concerning mistreatment suffered due to the use of Immigrant and Customs Enforcement of The WRAP, a containment device used during deportation. The complaint states that what happened to men and others who were afraid to move forward falls within the definition of torture. The complaint also asks whether the punishment was motivated by racism, since so far only black asylum seekers from African countries have revealed their experiences. The San Diego Union-Tribune Minnesota Gov. Asks to stop deportation of women seeking forgiveness Minnesota Gov. Tim Walz (D) has asked ICE officials to "close administratively" deportation procedures for Amreya Shefa, a woman who, according to him, would be in danger if she were to return to Ethiopia. Shefa was sentenced to murder in a blow for stabbing her husband to death for legitimateafter having held her prisoner in her own house and raped her repeatedly. He asked for the grace, which Walz supported, but was not granted. "It will be vulnerable to the practice of killing for retaliation by the family of her late husband, who made credible threats against her life," Walz wrote in a letter to Timothy Perry, head of the staff of the ICE in Washington, D.C. Associated PrintingImmigrant property companies continue to fight business owners along Lake Street in Minneapolis are still facing damage from the destruction of the property and the pandemic. About three quarters of these activities are of the property of color people - for the most oriental African, Latin and Asian immigrants. Although federal, state and local governments, as well as foundations and private donors, have provided aid, these funds has been sufficient to cover $ 500 million dollars to property damage these immigrants suffered in 2020. Ngan Hoang, a refugee Vietnamese, he owned nails Cali for 27 years and is three months after renting for his business. The store of him usually pulled between $ 125,000 and $ 150,000 a year, but it fell between $ 25,000 and $ 30,000 last year. Sahan Journal can feed this job for $ 10 / month.
